

Dr Black is a qualitative health services researcher with some particular methodological research interests:

- effective use of new and developed qualitative data collection and analysis methods
- use of theory in applied health qualitative research
- data synthesis and metasynthesis
- interview quality and design