

We have CLAHRC researchers “embedded” in two of our partner organisations currently.

Dr Charlotte Woodhead is working with Haringey Council. She is evaluating if having welfare advice in GP surgeries improves mental health and reduces how often patients attend the GP.

University College London Hospitals (UCLH) is home to a multi-disciplinary embedded research team consisting of two medical anthropologists, two operational researchers and a health economist. The team undertake research projects and develop funding applications for high quality research in close collaboration with health professionals and managers at UCLH.
