

After 70 years, does the NHS have a future?

Never a week goes by without claims of another 'crisis' engulfing the NHS: insufficient resources, dispirited staff, poor safety, waiting times, inadequate social care and more.

To mark the 70th birthday of the NHS, our colleagues at the London School of Hygiene & Tropical Medicine (LSHTM) are hosting a Question Time event with an expert panel from nursing, medicine, health policy and research to focus on the challenges and prospects for the future.

If you register to attend this free debate you can submit questions for the panel and contribute to the discussion on the day if you wish to.

Panellists for this event are -

- Dame Donna Kinnair, Director of Nursing Policy & Practice, Royal

College of Nursing

- Nigel Edwards, Chief Executive, Nuffield Trust
- Jane Dacre, President, Royal College of Physicians, London
- Martin McKee, Professor of European Public Health, LSHTM

It will be chaired by Sir Nick Black, Professor of Health Services Research, LSHTM

It is free to attend but registration is required, please follow the link below.

<https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/does-the-nhs-have-a-future-registration-45200336423>

Venue

London School of Hygiene & Tropical Medicine
John Snow Lecture Theatre
Keppel Street
London
WC1E 7HT

Date and time

Tuesday 3 July 2018
17:30 - 18:30

Find out more:

<https://www.lshtm.ac.uk/newsevents/events/does-nhs-have-future>